$425 is ridiculous! I doubt the subwoofer cost that much brand new. There are amps available from places like partsexpress.com, rythmikaudio.com, adireaudio.com. Most likely the Klipsch amp has some sort of eq built into the amplifier which another amplifier wont duplicate. The end result will be...

I haven't owned a C35, but have owned the C31V and C37. The C31V is more similar to yours, and my own personal opinion was that I disliked the digital volume control, which was noisy, but everything else was ok. The C37 is a better unit, but rare too. It added electromagnetic switching, and a motorized volume control, which made noises too.
